PREFACE

Several years ago, the pain of being bullied visited our home. When our son, Curtis, was in seventh grade, he was bullied and eventually isolated by several students. My wife and I decided to transfer him to another school system. He found acceptance and a sense of belonging at the new middle school. Then at age fifteen, Curtis was in a car accident that changed his life.

My wife and I had to give the surgeons permission to remove two fingers and one-third of his right hand. He had two other fingers repaired and one rebuilt. When he went back to school, many of his classmates encouraged and supported him. But many were cruel to him. Once again, I asked myself, "How can kids be so cruel?" There was a cry from within me for answers. I wanted to know if I could stop cruelty from developing, and I wanted to stop it after it had already developed.

There was also a cry from within my son, and it was deeper and more intense than mine. The bullying had a tremendous impact on his self-esteem, confidence and emotional health even into his adult years. At the age of twenty-three, he suffered from depression and anxiety. He developed posttraumatic stress from the car wreck and the persistent bullying. He also sought the company of the wrong people. They convinced him to escape his depression, anxiety and emotional pain by taking an illegal drug, METH. He had a heart problem that no one knew about, and the drug killed him.

Now you understand why I am passionate about preventing and stopping bullying and why I am writing this book for you. I understand the pain expressed by children who are bullied and the heartache their parents experience. I want to stop the pain. I also have witnessed the frustration of professionals who seek to prevent and stop bullying. They have a tremendous need for resources designed to help them prevent and stop bullying.

In response to my son's bullying, I wrote my first book, The Bully Free Classroom®. I wrote this book because I do not want any student to experience what our son did. I especially do not want them to take the path he took. After his death, my wife, Linda, and I wrote several books and developed numerous other materials and resources that now make up the Allan L. Beane Bullying Prevention Program. Thousands of schools in the United States and other countries now use our materials and resources. Linda and I work full time helping schools implement our program. We have dedicated the rest of our lives to preventing and stopping bullying. Our efforts have expanded into presenting school assembly programs, presenting to parents, training school personnel and training others who work with young people. Visit our Website www.bullyfree.com for more information.

Bullying can be found in every neighborhood, school system and school. To prevent and reduce it requires a systematic effort in each school. Ideally, there will be a school system wide commitment to preventing and stopping bullying. There must be adult involvement, including parents and others in the community. But this kind of commitment doesn't always exist. I have actually had school superintendents tell me that bullying didn't exist in their school system. Adults denying that bullying exists or ignoring bullying is the worst thing that can happen to children, a school, and a community. When adults harness the energy of school personnel, parents, community representatives and children, bullying can be prevented and stopped, or at least significantly reduced. I often wonder if we can ever eliminate it—considering the nature of human beings. However, I am extremely hopeful. Using this book is the first step toward making that a reality. Please keep in mind that an effective anti-bullying program has several components. No single book or strategy is adequate by itself to prevent and stop bullying.

I hope you find this book informative and helpful.

DEDICATION

This book is dedicated to our son, Curtis Allan Beane, who was bullied in seventh grade and high school. It is also dedicated to our daughter, Christy Turner; our son-in-law, Mike; and our grandchildren, Emily Grace Turner, Sarah Gail Turner, Jacob Allan Turner and Jimmy Andrew Turner. They have been a light in the darkness caused by Curtis's death. We hope this book, and those who use it, will bring light into the darkness of students who are bullied.

- Allan and Linda Beane

I dedicate this book foremost to my creator, who transformed my pain into gifts of compassion; to my husband, Alan for his patient support; to my sons and their wives: Mark and Ashley, David and Kristie, Keith and Kate and to my grandchildren, Jackson and Brynna, a total delight.

- Sabrina Pepsny

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Grateful thanks are offered to everyone who has helped by providing advice, information and suggestions during the preparation of this book. Special thanks are offered to Ms. Eleanor Mills Spry, Assistant Superintendent of the Murray Independent Schools System, Ms. Janet Caldwell, Principal of Murray Elementary School and the school's personnel. Special thanks are also offered to Ms. Sharon Morgan, professional development coordinator for the Constellation School District, Parma, Ohio and other school personnel of her school district. We would also like to thank Ms. Margaret Cook, Principal of North Calloway Elementary School, and her school's personnel for their tremendous insight and excellent contribution to the content of these lessons.

INTRODUCTION

Introduction

As a teacher or counselor, you will find this book to be a powerful instructional anti-bullying resource with an excellent scope and sequence of lesson plans. They purposefully have a heavy focus on anti-bullying content. The lessons were developed by teachers for teachers over a two-year period. They were field-tested in over 20 schools in the United States.

The lesson plans in this book are designed to create a supportive, caring, peaceful and safe classroom and school. They are designed to help you establish an environment in which students and adults feel psychologically, emotionally and physically safe. They help victims cope with their feelings and with the bullying, as well as encourage bullies to stop mistreating others. Many of the lessons are designed to empower bystanders and to teach them to play a major role in preventing and stopping bullying. Students can be powerful change agents in their classrooms and their school.

Help create a Bully Free classroom and school today by systematically implementing the lesson plans in this book.

Lesson Plans

This book includes thirty-one lesson plans. You should teach at least one per week. All of the preschool teachers may want to teach the same lessons, the same time on the same days. Teachers may adapt the lessons to meet the needs of their students and to adhere to lesson plan policies and procedures of their school, as well as state requirements when they exist. Once a week you should also review the major concepts taught in one or several previous lessons, to help maintain learning.

Almost every lesson has five components: Learner Outcome(s); Essential Question(s); Preparation and Materials; Activities; and Lesson Extension(s). These components are described below.

Learner Outcome(s)

Each lesson has at least one learner outcome specified which indicates what students are expected to learn and/or be able to demonstrate as a result of the lesson.

Essential Question(s)

Each lesson has one or more essential questions that students are expected to answer.

Preparation and Materials

This component includes a list of materials along with any preparation needed to implement the lesson plan.

Throughout this series there are some lessons in which the teacher and students will interact with a puppet. The puppet is first introduced in lesson one as Kinderbe (rhymes with Kimberly). The puppet used may be any puppet that is new to the students or one that is somehow disguised (i.e. glasses, hat etc.). Kinderbe will interact with the teacher and students as:

- The puppet whispers in the teacher's ear.
- The teacher and puppet have a conversation (teacher is the puppet's voice).
- The puppet talks directly to the students.
- The puppet talks with the students as they respond with comments or questions.

Activities

This section of the lesson plan includes a variety of age-appropriate interactive activities that are teacher directed but include an array of teaching and learning strategies (i.e., presentation of examples and non-examples, student involvement, etc.).

Lesson Extension

This component includes additional activities that help reinforce the concepts taught.

Importance of Terminology

You will notice an effort in the lesson plans to avoid the terms or labels victim and bullies. It is our preference that students not be labeled. When possible, we prefer “students who are bullied” and “students who bully others.” There are a few places in the lesson plans that we use the term victim or victims because we want to emphasize their victimization or abuse by others.

Professional Development and Presentations to Students and Parents

To support your efforts to prevent and stop bullying, you might find it helpful to contact Bully Free® Systems, LLC (www.bullyfree.com) who offers presentations to students, parents and school personnel. A variety of three to six hour workshops for school personnel are also available. Contact: Bully Free® Systems, LLC, phone: (270) 227-0431 or email abeane@bullyfree.com.

Lesson Plan Record Chart

A “Lesson Plan Record Chart” is provided to assist you in keeping track of lessons taught. Lessons may be checked off once completed. Space is also provided for you to write notes regarding changes/improvements you wish to make the next time you teach the lesson.

The chart also serves as an accountability tool or report form. A copy of it should be given to your principal on a regular/systematic basis to indicate the lessons you have taught. Ask your principal to specify the frequency of reporting.

LESSON 20

Hands Are Not for Bullying

Learner Outcome:

By the end of this lesson students will be able to identify appropriate ways to use their hands instead of hurting/mistreating others with them.

Essential Questions:

How do some students hurt others with their hands?

What are some things we can do with our hands instead of hurting someone with them?

Preparation and Materials:

- Puppet – Ms. Handy (a glove with glued or self-stick eyes, a felt or pom-pom nose and a felt mouth)
- Stick hand puppet using the diagram provided at the end of this lesson - Copy the sheet on cardstock paper--one per student.
- Safety scissors
- Tongue depressors (flat popsicle sticks)
- Masking tape
- Chart paper and marker
- Pictures provided at the end of this lesson of nice things to do with your hands.

Activities:

1. Review the previous lesson.
2. Tell students that a special friend of yours is coming to visit today.
3. Ms. Handy emerges and you greet her. Introduce Miss Handy and ask the students to say hello.
4. Ask Ms. Handy if there is anything special she'd like to say. She says "Yes" and begins her dialogue.

Ms. Handy: "Hi students. I am so glad to be here today. I've heard that you do helpful and fun things with your hands. That's terrific, but did you know that sometimes people use their hands to do hurtful things? Can anyone think of mean things that people sometimes do with their hands? (your name), will you help us make a list?"

Teacher: "I'd be happy to. I will draw a line down the middle of the chart paper so we have two columns. We'll draw a sad hand at the top of this column on the left. Can someone tell me what I should draw at the top of the right column?" (Call on student to respond and draw the happy hand at the top of the right column).
"Who can name a mean thing to do with their hands?"

As students respond, list their answers (i.e., hitting, pushing, pinching, etc.) in the left column.

Ms. Handy: “I don’t know about you; but, I’m ready to hear about some nice things people do with their hands.”

Teacher: “Me, too! Who can name something nice to do with our hands?”

As students respond, list their answers (i.e., draw pictures, paint pictures, play, color, wave hello, etc.) in the right column. Show pictures provided at the end of this lesson and discuss each.

5. Thank Ms. Handy for coming and tell her we will do our best to only use our hands in kind and helpful ways.
6. Say: “Friends we are going to make stick puppets to remind us to only do kind things with our hands.”
7. Demonstrate to students how to make a puppet using the circled hands.
  - Draw eyes, ears, a nose and a mouth on the palm of a hand.
  - Cut out the circle, talking about how carefully and slowly you are cutting on the lines.
  - Write your name on the back of the circle at the top.
  - Place a tongue depressor or popsicle stick on the back of the circle so that the top of the depressor is at center.
  - Fasten the tongue depressor with masking tape.
8. Distribute a circled hand to each student. Do not distribute the safety scissors at this point.
9. Ask students to draw human features (eyes, nose, ears, mouth) on the hand they have been given.
10. Distribute the safety scissors and remind students to cut slowly and carefully on the line around the hand.
11. Ask students to write their names on the back (help with this as needed).
12. Distribute the tongue depressors or flat sticks and strips of tape. Help students tape the stick to the back of the circle.
13. Ask students to hold up their puppet and say kind and helpful things they can do with their hands.
14. Lead students in singing the rap Hands and Feet to Y’self with accompanying motions. Say: “Confrontation is a very big word that means fight or argument. The words ‘avoid a confrontation’ mean you don’t get in an argument or fight.”

15. Review the major points of this lesson.

Lesson Extension:

1. Read the book Hands Are Not for Hitting (2006) by E. Verdick (Free Spirit Publishing) to students.
2. Students create their own Ms. or Mr. Handy using a glove, eyes, pom-pom or felt nose and felt mouth.
3. Make a helping hands bulletin board with nice things to do with our hands written on the hands.
4. Post giant hands and feet and the words to the rap Hands and Feet to Y'self in the cafeteria and a shorter version in the bathrooms and hallways.

Pictures of good, nice and kind things we can do with our hands.

Allan L. Beane, Ph.D. and Linda Beane

Allan L. Beane, Ph.D., is an internationally recognized author, speaker and expert on bullying. He has over 36 years experience in education, which includes teaching special education, teaching regular education, serving as Director of a School Safety Center and serving as vice president of a university. He has served as an expert in criminal cases and as a consultant in lawsuits involving bullying. He has also made numerous television appearances.

Dr. Beane's son was bullied in seventh grade and high school. Bullying contributed to his son's untimely death at the age of 23. His son's life inspired him to write his first book, The Bully Free Classroom, and other books about bullying. His first book is in several languages. Schools and districts all over the United States have adopted the Allan L. Beane Bullying Prevention Program.

As a dynamic and highly sought-after speaker in the United States and other countries, Dr. Beane presents keynote addresses, presentations and workshops for school districts, organizations, colleges, students and parents. His down-to-earth speaking style, inspirational stories and practical strategies appeal to audiences everywhere.

Linda Beane has over 20 years of experience in educational settings. She is the co-author of several anti-bullying books included in the Allan L. Beane Bullying Prevention Program. Also a mother and grandmother, Linda has been widely recognized for her support of children and her responsiveness to their needs.

Allan and Linda operate Bully Free® Systems, LLC, a company dedicated to preventing and stopping bullying. Since the death of their son Curtis, in whose death bullying played a part, they have devoted their lives to creating safe and supportive learning environments where all students can have a sense of belonging and acceptance. To order the preschool book of 31 Bullying Prevention Lesson Plans, go to www.bullyfree.com and click on products. Available as printed copy by grade level ($35.95) or as PDF files for your entire school ($300.00)

Preschool teachers and counselors will find this book to be a powerful instructional anti-bullying resource with an excellent scope and sequence of thirty-one (31) lesson plans. They purposefully have a heavy focus on anti-bullying content. These interactive and thought provoking lessons were developed by preschool teachers working with Dr. Beane and Linda Beane over a two-year period. Their design is based on effective teaching and learning principles. The Bullying Prevention Lesson Plans were field-tested in 23 schools. They were designed to create a supportive, caring, peaceful and safe classroom and school. They promote the Golden Rule, develop empathy, help students who are bullied cope with their feelings and with the bullying, as well as encourage those who bully to stop mistreating others. Many of the lessons are designed to empower bystanders and to teach them to play a major role in preventing and stopping bullying. Almost every lesson has five components: Learner Outcome(s); Essential Question(s); Preparation and Materials; Activities; and Lesson Extension(s).
